State-of-the-art technology allows property owners to avoid costly repairs

Considering the increasing unpredictability of Southern California weather patterns, proactive property owners and managers prepare their buildings and resources to withstand potential damage caused by heavy rainfall, flooding, and high winds. The Golden State can be extremely volatile, with prolonged periods of drought followed by intense storms.

With the wet season fast approaching, savvy property owners anticipate the unexpected and take necessary precautions to protect their investments and avoid costly emergency response to storm damage. Fortunately, CAM Property Services provides a critical service that can help mitigate future weather damage to properties: Drone Inspection.

By having your property inspected by our state-of-the-art drones, you can identify any potential issues or areas in need of repair — before it's too late. This can save you from expensive emergency repair calls down the line and help maintain the structural integrity of your building.

Eye-in-the-sky technology provides cost-effective, aerial view property data that can be an extremely important tool for property managers, while identifying deferred maintenance items that need to be budgeted for now.

Drone Inspections provide perspective:

■ Rooftop Overviews

■ Top-To-Bottom Coverage

■ Elevated Sign & Façade Views

■ Under-Inspected Area Coverage

■ Perimeter Scans (Video & Still Images)

■ Insurance Asset Documentation

■ ID Damage / Theft / Vandalism

■ Overall Building and Property Risk Assessment

Our advanced drone technology can identify existing weaknesses or areas that might be at risk. Once the inspection is complete, CAM will share its proprietary software with you and make recommendations to address any visible repairs or maintenance tasks. The inspection is stored in Cloud access for review.

Contact CAM’s Property Pros today at (800) 576-3050 to schedule a drone inspection and take a proactive approach to safeguarding your property from further damage.
